WINCHESTER'S SEVENTH ANNUAL

ART IN BLOOM

JUNE 8-9-10 2017

ART IN BLOOM returns to the NextDoor Theater for the seventh year this June pairing 30 local artists' work with the creative floral interpretations of 30 volunteer community designers.

This unique and highly visual fundraiser promises to delight attendees with a Grand Gala Reception on THURSDAY JUNE 8 from 7:00-10:00 PM featuring live music, open bar and a dessert buffet.

Tickets are $35.

The exhibit then remains open to the public on Friday June 9 from 10-4 and Saturday June 10 from 10-1 for a suggested donation of $10.

Tickets available at the door or in advance from BOOKENDS or online at have you seen what is going on nextdoor?

Over the past year, a great group of volunteers have planted 7 new garden sites around the town of Winchester. These little “pockets of beauty” are a big hit in the town and seem to help brighten everyone’s day. When we are working in these gardens, so many strangers stop to tell us how beautiful they are and to say “Thank You for doing this”.

Our most recent garden was planted this week under the sign for Ginn Field on Bacon Street. It is gorgeous thanks to Susan Fagerstrom and Jen Warner. Please be sure to notice as you are driving by.

There are other sites at:

- Nutile Field (Karen Beals, Diane Lopez, Kirsten May, Susan Mitchell)
- Wright Locke Farm entrance path (Linda Bartol , Rose Beecher, Cheryl Curtin, , Jackie Burchard)
- Public Safety Building (Rose Beecher, Fleur Hynes, Martha MacDonald)
- Leonard Field (Susan Brooks, Sally DerVartanian, Deb Fichera, Bernadette Kearney)
- Fire Station (Ester Dagle, Lee Griffin, Diane Rodrigues)
- Ciarcia Rock- on hiatus while construction is ongoing at the sports fields (Maureen Conway, Nickie Sakorafos)

If you would like to help with one of our site gardens please contact Susan Mitchell at susan.mitchell1@comcast.net. Some of our current teams could use more help and there are a few more potential sites around town where we would love to plant a garden.

event sponsored by the Brookline Bird Club

Did you know that the most important source of food for young birds is bugs, not berries? As important as those high-bush cranberries are to the local wren, the caterpillars it finds on the plant's leaves are even more important. From bugs to seeds to protective cover building good bird habitat is about a lot more than simply fruiting plants (and those are darn important as well). Join Dan Jaffe, from the New England Wild Flower Society, for a discussion about all things birds! From plant choices to landscaping techniques we'll discuss everything you need to know to bring more birds to your landscape.

Please register by email to Diana Fruguglietti at diana.fru@gmail.com to ensure your spot. There is no fee.

A follow up walk will be held at the New England Wild Flower Society on Saturday, June 17th from 10 AM- 12:00 PM - Framingham

The Urn at the Common

Unfortunately, age, rain and lack of drainage took the urn down this past weekend. Luckily, our friends at DPW, Jimmy and Jay are on it and will help replacing the bowl.

Some plants were crushed in the fall. We hope to have a new bowl in place very soon and getting the urn back to it's magnificence!
